

THE AEG INSIDER

Meet Diana Cook

Diana Cook is the current Chair of the Rocky Mountain Section, and has been a member since 2000. She first became active in AEG while pursuing triple undergraduate degrees in Geology, Geological Engineering and Civil Engineering at New Mexico State University, where she also served as the student chapter vice-president of AEG. Following completion of a master's degree in Civil Engineering from the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign, she reconnected with the Rocky Mountain Section as a Ph.D. student in Geological Engineering at the Colorado School of Mines, where she also served as the AEG student chair for two years.

Ms. Cook is a licensed engineer at Tetra Tech, Inc. in Golden, Colo., and has approximately six years cumulative professional experience in Geological/Civil Engineering. Ms. Cook's recent experience has mainly focused on seismic hazard analyses, seepage and slope stability analyses, consolidation analyses, abandoned mine subsidence modeling and subsurface investigation planning. In her spare time, she generally enjoys cooking, sewing, gardening, yoga and playing pool. She has a second-degree black belt in Tai Kwon Do, but is currently pursuing other new hobbies, such as wheel-pottery.
