

THE AEG INSIDER

Meet Nathan Saraceno

Nathan (Nate) Saraceno is an active AEG member living in Pittsburgh. This past May, Nate accepted a position with DiGioia Gray & Associates, where he conducts geological investigations and aids in foundation design, slope stability and other engineering geology projects – a position he attributes in part to his involvement with AEG!

Previously, he worked for eight years as an environmental geologist in Ohio. He is currently completing his M.S. in engineering geology from Kent State University.

Nate first became an AEG member in 2004 as a senior in college (also at Kent State). Since then, he has become extremely active in the AEG community, attending and presenting his research at both Section and Annual Meetings and volunteering on multiple committees including serving as co-chair of the Student & Young Professional Support Committee. Nate is also the current secretary of the Allegheny-Ohio Section.

In his spare time, Nate enjoys hiking, writing new posts for his blog (www.AdventuresInGeology.com), and visiting family.
