

On AEG Networking Opportunities

By Deb Green

AEG provides networking opportunities that range from personal conversations at Section and Annual Meetings to global e-connections. Whatever kind of networking you care to seek out in support of your academic and professional career, you can find at AEG. On a personal level, all the job interviews I had when I finished my master's degree were with people who had seen me present my research at a Section or Annual Meeting.

And throughout the years of my professional career, I have met colleagues through AEG that have given me the opportunity to propose on projects, or to team with them. Not to mention the friendships I have made that enrich my personal, as well as my professional life. Look at what AEG has to offer you. Go to a Section Meeting! Attend the 2014 Annual Meeting in scenic Scottsdale, Arizona! Or simply peruse AEG's website or LinkedIn group and "meet" people that share your interest in environmental and engineering geology.

Deb Green, AEG Member, Rocky Mountain Section