

Reach them with Email!

Opt in-Email is one of the only types of advertising that people in the military community ask to receive!

Opt-in Email is sent to people who have signed up to receive messages of interest to the military community. Email presents many benefits over other more traditional forms of marketing.

- Opened- Email is read when the reader has the time and has chosen to look at the message.
- Low cost- Email campaigns can be designed, produced and launched very easily, quickly and inexpensively compared to print advertising.
- Real time delivery- Email is effective in delivering a message about a short term sale opportunity, special pricing or other promotional message.
- Immediate response- Email messages generate activity immediately so message can be timed to appear on the exact day the advertiser needs.
- Analytics- Advertisers are able to track response rates to determine ROI of a specific campaign.
- Unlimited Space-Email is not limited by page size or article length. It's a great vehicle to deliver information about the benefits of a new product or recipes or other information that can't be delivered with a print ad.
- Build membership- Email is effective in generating visits and memberships to other websites of military community interest.
- Sharing -People will forward email messages of interest to their friends expanding the advertiser's reach.
