

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE
Director
Hood Museum of Art

Nominations and applications are invited for the position of Director of the Hood Museum of Art at Dartmouth College.

The Hood Museum of Art houses one of the oldest and largest college collections in the country, with strong holdings of African, European and Euro-American, Native American and Oceanic art and artifacts that date from antiquity to the present.

We seek a dynamic Director with a passion for college and university museum culture to maintain and develop an exciting scholarly exhibition and publications program, and to oversee acquisitions for the collection with the museum's well-established endowments. In addition, the Director also oversees academic and community educational programs, operations and management. An important part of the Director's job is building and maintaining strong relations with faculty, students, benefactors, volunteers, advisory groups and other museums. The Director reports to the Provost and plays a significant role in the educational, cultural and intellectual life of the College.

A PhD in Art History or a related discipline is preferred, and at least five years of experience in the museum field is required. Nominations and applications are encouraged immediately; review of materials will continue through mid March 2011. Please email a letter of interest and curriculum vitae to:

Director of the Hood Museum of Art Search Committee
c/o Russell Reynolds Associates
DartmouthCollegeHoodMuseumofArt@russellreynolds.com

With an even distribution of male and female students and over a quarter of the undergraduate student population members of minority groups, the College is committed to diversity and encourages applications from women and minorities.