

Bushcaddy moves to Cornwall

Bushcaddy International Inc. manufacturer of the Bushcaddy line of aircraft and aircraft kits has negotiated a final arrangement with Cornwall Regional airport in Ontario, on the USA border, to move their entire production to the airport with the move commencing on October 1st. Bushcaddy expects to be back to normal operations by October 8th in their new location on the main apron at Cornwall airport.

Bushcaddy will run as normal, but in addition to our normal operations we will provide Unicom and airport reception services for the airport, washroom facilities and refreshments etc. will soon be available at the temporary reception building located near the Bushcaddy Hangar.

An interim phone number will be effective until systems are fully established (Tel.: 450-516- 3910) and email will be as per normal (Email: tony@bushcaddy.com). Or visit www.bushcaddy.com for more information.

This move from Lachute, Quebec, will see us diversify in our services and will ensure our growth into the future as well as being more convenient for potential U.S. buyers as there is a bridge crossing into the USA in Cornwall.
