

Faces in Family Medicine 2.0 Program Gearing up for New School Year: Mentors Needed

Please consider being a mentor for KAFP's Faces in Family Medicine (FIFM) 2.0 Program. The future of family medicine needs you. KAFP is excited to build upon last year's expansion to pre-med students with the 2013-14 school year. But this also means, we will need more mentor volunteers!

We began offering the program to selected pre-med students last year, and plan to visit the state universities over a multi-year rotation. This year, we will host dinners for pre-med students at Pittsburg State University in addition to our annual meals with medical students from all three KU School of Medicine campuses (Kansas City, Wichita and Salina).

FIFM includes a mentorship opportunity for students, which utilizes asynchronous communication like social media and email, and also includes the opportunity for personal mentoring through shadowing.

Expectations from mentors include:

- A commitment to mentor for one school year
- Four social media or email contacts during the year (one per quarter)
- An offer for shadowing experience in your practice
- Attendance at a dinner close to you (optional)

To participate we ask mentors to fill out the SHORT survey at this link:
