

June 13, 2013

Department: NAGC News

National Association for Gifted Children

60th Annual Convention and Exhibition

Indianapolis
November 7-10, 2013

Five Months Out and the Excitement Grows

In just about five months, 3,000 leaders in the field of gifted and talented education will converge in Indianapolis for the 60th Annual NAGC Convention and Exhibition. And we hope to count you among that group!

While NAGC Convention attendees come from all parts of the U.S. and beyond, they share a common goal: to further their knowledge and increase their resource base to better serve the needs of high-ability learners in the classroom and at home. NAGC brings together parents, classroom teachers, college and university faculty, researchers, district and state gifted coordinators and directors, counselors, and more. Together they share a common concern that high-achieving children from all walks of life get the support they need to excel.

And what do YOU get?

- Top-notch educational sessions in a variety of formats, such as general sessions, concurrent sessions presented by individual speakers or panels, poster sessions, and exhibitor

- workshops, plus Signature Sessions, which are invited sessions addressing the latest topics in the field of gifted and talented education
- 100+ exhibitors sharing the latest resources and educational tools to make your job easier
  - Dozens of sessions delivered by our partners from the National Consortium for Specialized Secondary Schools of Mathematics, Science and Technology (NCSSSMST)
  - Pre-convention programs that address the Common Core State Standards, and include experiential Action Labs and Network events where you get to learn—and laugh—with others who share your interests
  - Access to recorded sessions that will be available in the NAGC Live Learning Center

Make your plans today to join your peers at the largest annual event celebrating gifted and talented education, and this year we are celebrating our 60th Convention anniversary! Full information is available online, and registrations are coming in!